

WEBSITE COOKIES POLICY

You may have heard of internet cookies...you may know all about them. To confirm, a cookie is a small file of letters and numbers stored (with your consent) on your browser or the hard drive of your computer. Cookies contain information that is transferred to your computer's hard drive.

Cookies allow us to identify you (or, more accurately, your computer) when you visit our website. Knowing how often people are visiting each page of our website helps us work out how and where to improve our website.

Details about the cookies we use are set out in the table below.

By continuing to use our website after opening this cookies policy, you consent to the use of cookies (including third party cookies) as described in this policy.

Cookie	Purpose	Duration
_gat	Creates a tracker object for the given web property ID. Used by Google Analytic and found on the majority of web sites.	1day
_ga	First-party cookie to store the client ID. Used by Google Analytic and found on the majority of web sites.	Expires when page closes

If you want, you can block cookies by changing the settings on your browser – we have set out below links to the 'Help' pages of some major browsers which explain how you can do this. Blocking the cookies we use may have an adverse impact upon the presentation of some or all of our website.
